She got the beauty and brains

Take care of your skin, you'll wear it every day for the rest of your life. Anissa Sakli, a studentpreneur, is making sure this message is heard by women through her business The Beauty agency. Her mission is to help women regain outer and inner self-confidence through the usage of result-oriented skin treatments: facials, microneedling, peels, and so on. Her love for diversity is also found in her technique, for every skin type and color she has a solution. A true safe space.

They say, your mother is a role model before knowing what that word actually means. In Anissa's case it's true. Her mon used to have a beauty salon, so naturally saw how women glowed a creating this effect. Even the still had a love for law - after to finish her paralegal degr she'll go: beauty or brains ( don't always have to chose

ANISSA'S GOLDEN RULES

You can't do it all on your own, always. It's okay to find a business partner to help set up the foundation.

Know your worth. Not everyone will give your services the same value, that doesn't mean you have to lower the price.

When working with influencers or ambassadors, you need to feel comfortable with them. Make sure you're receive the value that you're investing into it.
